105' / COMING OF AGE, DRAMA

Seventeen-year-old Sara hides a secret on a school trip. When the trip spirals out of control and Sara witnesses a classmate's sexual assault, she and the girl seal a bond that will last forever.

Director's bio

Kosara Mitić (1987, Skopje, North Macedonia) is a director and screenwriter who signs several short films, some of which were shown at festivals worldwide. Her last three shorts Drop by Sometime (2013), Birthday (2015) and The Red Room (2016) gained international recognition for their precise storytelling, emotional restraint, and focus on social realities. Her debut feature film, 17, was developed at Midpoint Feature Launch 2017 and presented and awarded at CineLink Work in Progress at the 31. Sarajevo Film Festival. She is also an alumna of Berlinale Talents, a program supporting emerging filmmakers.

Director's note

17 exposes a seemingly harmonious but rotten society through fierce realism, confronting taboos kept behind closed doors. Inspired by a real case of a teenage girl secretly giving birth during a school trip, the film objectively explores trauma without taking sides. Through Sara and Lina, it examines unwanted pregnancy, rape, silence, and consequences that bind lives forever across generations globally.

IMAGINARY NUMBERS

Imaginarni brojevi

16' / COMING OF AGE, FICTION

Mirna and her father take a bus from their village to the city of Niš so she can participate in the national mathematics competition. It is a big day: winning an award could secure her a place at a prestigious school and pave the way for a better future.

Director's bio

Jelica Jerinić is a Serbian-born, Helsinki-based filmmaker with an MA in Dramaturgy from the Faculty of Dramatic Arts in Belgrade. Her short documentaries and fiction films have been awarded at festivals and broadcast on Yle. Imaginary Numbers, her fourth short film, premieres at the 76th Berlin International Film Festival (Generation Kplus).

Director's note

Besides its autobiographical layer, the film addresses the importance of overcoming obstacles and social stereotypes, and encourages young women to pursue careers in STEM. In Southeastern Europe, there are more women in science than in Western Europe, and academic competitions may be one of the reasons for this.

THIS DESIRABLE DEVICE

Ovaj poželjni stroj

17' 23" / EXPERIMENTAL DOCUMENTARY

Treating the language as a device of meaning, the film deals with the transposable power that comes with the language itself – the worth that comes from the device, rather than from the meaning. Being given the opportunity to work on attractive and expensive 16mm film tape, yet in a restrictive political climate, filmmaker wonders about all the transactions she made when emigrating to Germany – what does one have to give up, to be able to live in the 'promised land'?

Director's bio

Mina Simendić (Belgrade, 2003) is a Serbian filmmaker, editor and media artist. Currently pursuing BA in Film at HfbK, she is living and working in Hamburg, Germany. Her debut experimental short Walks that won't Happen premiered at Cinéma du Réel 2024. Her latest film This Desirable Device will premiere at Berlinale International Film Festival, in the selection of Forum Expanded.

Director's note

Living in the age of uncomfortable conversations, one part of my brain always carries that meme of Peter Griffin from Family Guy: Ah sweet, man-made horrors beyond my comprehension. And while humor is a very comfortable way to cope, I believe that we have reached a point where we do not have that luxury of any conversation being off the table or being too uncomfortable, we do not have the luxury of any horror, especially a man-made one, to remain beyond our comprehension. Looking at a language, not even as a means of communication, but as a means of articulating our own thoughts, of comprehending the world around us, with this film I aimed at questioning how language can predetermine or at least condition our thinking, together with all the manipulation possibilities that come with it.

SYLVIA

Silvija

90' / GUN-FU, FEMALE REVENGE

Angie (50), once a glamorous Playboy model, now lives on the fringes of Belgrade society. Her only joy is her daughter, Sylvia (25). When Sylvia falls into an abusive relationship with Aca, a violent small-time gangster, Angie hides her in the United States. As Aca and his men begin hunting for Sylvia's whereabouts, Angie is forced to awaken a dark part of herself she buried long ago. A former victim of domestic violence, Angie was shaped into a weapon and now she takes ruthless revenge on Aca and his criminal circle.

Director's bio

Aida Begić, film director and screenwriter. Debut feature Snow (2008) won Grand Prix at Cannes' Semaine de la Critique, and at Berlinale's Generation, nominated for EFA Discovery. Follow-up Children of Sarajevo premiered at Cannes (2012), won Special Distinction of the Jury. Short film Album, in omnibus Bridges of Sarajevo (Cannes 2014); Never Leave Me (2017) was Bosnia's Oscar entry. Fourth film, A ballad, premiered in Competition at Sarajevo (2022).

Director's note

Ana Rodić's brilliant screenplay Sylvia is both a revenge story and an intimate mother-daughter drama. It is a Balkan gun-fu tale that explores the important subject of violence against women in a highly innovative form. I am honoured to be working on this film with a fantastic female team led by producer Snežana van Houwelingen.

GORILLA BATHES AT NOON

Gorila se kupu u podne

84' / DRAMA

In 1991, the Yugoslavian Black Wave made its way to Berlin with director Dušan Makavejev, who shows us the post-Wall city from the perspective of one Major Lazutkin. Just released from the hospital, the officer realises that the Red Army left him behind when it withdrew and his wife has also moved on to greener pastures. Clad in his uniform and carrying a Soviet flag, the somewhat dim-witted outsider wanders around the reunified city, including a visit to the zoo. He naively gets involved in weapons and child trafficking, and becomes "bewitched" by an apparition of Vladimir Lenin, before a happy future as a family man appears to him.

Using images of heroism from the Stalinist war propaganda film The Fall of Berlin (USSR, 1949), Makavejev portrays the vicissitudes of history as theatre of the absurd in which changed political portents lead to a reappraisal of inherited values.

Director's bio

Dušan Makavejev was born in Belgrade on October 13th, 1932, Serbia (The Kingdom of Yugoslavia; Died January 25th 2019). He studied psychology at the Faculty of Philosophy and then directing at the Academy of Theater, Film, Radio and TV in Belgrade. He made his name with the short films Smile 61, Down with the Fences, Parade. He directed feature films: Man is Not a Bird, Love Affair or the Case of the Missing Switchboard Operator, Innocence Unprotected, WR Mysteries of the Organism, Sweet Movie, Mister Montenegro, The Coca Cola Kid, Manifesto, Gorilla Bathes at Noon, A Hole in the Soul. ## Director's bio

Želimir Žilnik has made over 50 feature and short films, exhibited internationally at film festivals including Berlin, Toronto, Rotterdam, Moscow and Oberhausen. From the late 60s, his socially engaged films in former Yugoslavia earned him accolades, but also censorship in the 70s and the 90s for his unflinching criticism of the government apparatus. His power to observe and unleash compelling narratives out of the lives of ordinary people is the common thread throughout his work.

TITO AMONG THE SERBS FOR THE SECOND TIME

Tito po drugi put među Srbima

41' / DOCUMENTARY

Actor Dragoljub Ljubičić wearing the familiar marshal's uniform, the peaked cap of an army general and sunglasses of unmistakable 1970's vintage, he is immediately recognisable as the former president of the former Socialist Federal Republic of Yugoslavia. People on the street give free rein to their feelings. Either they berate him for causing the war in the Balkans or they revere him as the guarantor of peace, they vaunt their former prosperity or complain about the current shortages.

Conceived as a tongue-in-cheek 'happening', the stunt proves to be a catalyst for an unfiltered expression of psychological tensions in society before taking a serious turn when 'Tito' talks to a traumatised war veteran. Želimir Žilnik won the Golden Bear at the 1969 Berlin Film Festival for his narrative feature Rani radovi (Early Works).

IN THE CAPSULEU Kapsuli

75' / DOCUMENTARY

In the Capsule is a journey into the life and work of Vlatko Gilić, a filmmaker who chose disappearance over compromise. Through his self-constructed 'capsule' and a real nuclear shelter in New York, the film asks what art is worth saving when everything else collapses. Once celebrated at Cannes, now erased by history, Gilić embodies the price of integrity. His retreat from the world becomes a mirror for every artist confronting the same question: how much are you willing to sacrifice to remain true to yourself?

IT WAS RAINING AND THEN I REMEMBERED IT WAS THE DAY OF FIERY MARY

*Padala je kiša i onda se setim
da je bila Ognjena Marija*

80' / DOCUMENTARY, HYBRID

Imagine a Balkan woman shaped by war, exile, prison, violence, and survival. Nothing breaks her-until cancer arrives, quiet and final. In her last days, in a small Munich apartment, she speaks freely as her son films her: crude, beautiful, unedited truth. Years later, unable to forget, he returns to the footage and discovers not only his mother, but a stranger. To show her life, he asks his wife and daughter to embody her past. This film reveals the world women endure-dangerous, inherited, irrepressible-where life persists across generations.

Branislav Jankić is an artist and filmmaker from former Yugoslavia. A former refugee, he lived across Europe before settling in the US. His work reflects experiences of war, displacement, and family trauma. His book and film Letter to My Mother won major awards, as did his feature The Witch's Cauldron. He holds an MFA from SAIC.

He has an idea to pull his hometown club, his native region, and his friends out of the mud. But, as is always the case with mud, the more you struggle, the deeper you sink. LONG LIVE THE FACTORY!

Fabrika ne sme da stane!

75' / DOCUMENTARY

Long live the factory! is a documentary film about a factory, once a chemical industry giant of Yugoslavia, and its former workers. Aleksandar Kostić found tens of thousands of slides and negatives taken by factory photographers in various periods of its existence. Whenever he would hear the stories about the factory, Aleksandar wondered – why is there so much talk about it? Are those stories even true, or is it just nostalgia for the good old days? He spent years searching for the answers, hoping to get at least close to finding them.

LOVE ROOM

Ljubavna soba

120' / DRAMA

The stories are set in each season of the year, inside one of the so-called love rooms, a special room in a prison where inmates are allowed to see their visitors in private and have sex with their partners. The love room is a microuniverse through the different couples who pass through, a space in which some of the key problems, not only in relation to contemporary Serbian society, but also to humanity, are reflected. The love room is the main character of this film. The love relationships of the people who visit it are threatened by something that is, at least apparently, bigger than them and beyond them: social injustice, consumer society, careerism, fanaticism.

195' / WAR DRAMA

Director Lordan Zafranović, in an epic two-part film, returns to World War II to confront one of humanity's darkest chapters. Amid Yugoslavia's collapse, the fascist puppet state of Croatia establishes Jasenovac — a camp of boundless cruelty, including children's camps where the youngest innocents suffered. Unlike the mechanized killing of German camps, death here comes by hand, face to face. Through the eyes of victims and executioners, the film examines the anatomy of evil, the fragility of compassion, and the enduring question of whether humanity can survive its own darkness.

Director's bio

Lordan Zafranović (1944) spent the first years of his life with his mother and older brother Zdenko in exile, in El Shatt in Sinai. He graduated in film directing from the Film Academy in Prague in 1971 in the class of Elmar Kloss. His most known feature film, Occupation in 26 Pictures (1979) was presented in the Competition of the Cannes Film Festival. He has been praised as one of the greatest masters of Yugoslav cinema. He has dedicated his life entirely to research in the world of film art and has so far made a total of about 80 films.

SEE YOU IN THE
OBITUARIES 2.0

Vidimo se u čitulji 2.0

70' / DOCUMENTARY

Through the voices of four men from different generations of Belgrade's criminal milieu in 1990's, the film offers an unembellished portrait of a society in transition, where violence, ambition, and self-mythologizing replace ideology and solidarity. Stripping away the glamour, their stories reveal the mechanisms of power, survival, and betrayal, while exposing the fragile boundary between crime, the state, and everyday life. As the film accumulates evidence of systemic decay, it moves toward an inexorable conclusion: in a world governed by interest alone, loyalty becomes a fiction and death the only constant.
